

Case Study

Bader Martin

Accounting Firm Implements Robust Business Continuity Plan

Company Overview

With more than 25 years of experience, Bader Martin supports high net-worth clients nationwide, advising on tax work and trusts. As one of the Northwest's leading full-service accounting and advisory firms, Bader Martin combines world-class technical expertise with a reputation for responsiveness and year-round personal attention. Their services range from tax and business consulting to accounting, auditing and litigation support.

About BlackPoint

For over 30 years, BlackPoint IT Services has been committed to delivering unparalleled managed IT and consulting services to small to midsize businesses across the Seattle and Portland area.

Business Solution

For Bader Martin, a traditional accounting firm, downtime costs are very real and calculable - any time work is not accessible is a lost billable hour. The company is primarily digital and manages loads of sensitive financial data, however, their old backup solution was pricey, had bandwidth issues, and didn't always pass disaster recovery testing. It became clear that they needed a more reliable solution to protect their digital assets while minimizing the risk of downtime in order to stay profitable.

The Solution

With the criticality of protecting client data, as well as the need for Bader Martin's network to have the best possible uptime and reliability, BlackPoint IT recommended creating a full business continuity plan. Because the firm takes a progressive technology approach, BlackPoint was able to bring in a collaborative cloud platform that provided the necessary security for data protection, but also addressed the need for an easy backup and disaster recovery solution. The plan included both on-site hardware and virtual, offsite encrypted systems which could be backed up and restored in real time in case of a network issue or virus attack. In addition, BlackPoint also created a cyber security policy. The policy details how to perform backups within their business continuity plan, and provides Bader Martin's customers peace by promising to protect their data with documented procedures.

The Results

BlackPoint IT's easy to read nightly reporting service validates that systems can be spun up quickly in the event that anything should happen to the network, and that proof of backup is among the many things that keep everyone at Bader Martin at ease when it comes to the safety of their data. "We have a level of comfort knowing that BlackPoint is handling our data in the most secure manner possible," says Mike Basilicato, Bader Martin's Lead IT Manager. "That's priceless."

"BlackPoint is awesome. They are most definitely our trusted business continuity team."

-Mike Basilicato IT Manager Bader Martin